

Stephanie S. Stevens MD, FAAP

Dr. Stevens graduated from the University of Colorado Health Sciences Center in 1999. She completed her residency at The Children's Hospital in Denver, Colorado, where she was Chief Resident. During her residency, she received the "Golden Apple Teaching Award" and the "Bruce Garber Award" as the most outstanding senior resident in 2002. During medical school and her residency, she founded the Healthy Beginnings Medical Clinic to provide health care for children of low-income, single-parent families. Dr. Stevens joined Advanced Pediatrics in 2003, becoming a partner in 2005. She is a Fellow of the American Academy of Pediatrics, an Associate Clinical Professor of Pediatrics at the University of Colorado Health Sciences Center, a member of the Medical Board at Children's Hospital Colorado, a member of the Board with Colorado Pediatric Collaborative, a member of the Clinical Faculty Affairs Committee and the steering committee for the Practice Based Research Network at Children's Hospital Colorado, Chair of the Physician Credentialing Committee at Parker Adventist Hospital, and Director of the Healthy Beginnings Medical Clinic for Warren Village. In addition, she is a sign language interpreter for the deaf and has a master's degree in physical therapy. Her interests in pediatrics focus on sports medicine, child development and asthma. Her personal interests include skiing, hiking, triathlons and spending time with her family. She has two "almost grown" sons.
